Sudden Closing of Gambling Houses On Raid Night Alleged

Joins Running for Several Weeks, But All But One Shut Up on Night of Raid, Suggests M. B. Jackson, K.C., During Trial of Chinese; City Prosecutor Terms This Nonsense, Stating Records Show These Places Had Been Raided.

Allegations that a number of Chinese gambling houses had been operating continuously for a period of several weeks previous to a raid by police officers but that on the night of the raid all these places, except one, were closed up, and that the police department had been informed of this state of affairs were made by M. B. Jackson, K.C., counsel for seventeen Chinese taken in a raid on premises at No. 2 Fan Tan Alley.

The Chinese were arraigned in City Police Court before Magistrate George Jay, charged with being inmates of a common gaming house. At the conclusion of the case this morning, His Honor reserved judgment in the case of sixteen of the accused and released one man, Wong Chew, who was stated to be the watchman of the place.

CHIEF ON STAND
In his cross-examination of Chief of Police John P. Jackson asked the chief if he knew that at least half a dozen gambling places were in operation continuously up until the night of the raid.

"Not continuously," the Chief replied. Mr. Jackson asked the Chief if he knew that the police department or the commission had been so informed. The Chief replied he did not.

"Was it not significant that these places were all closed up on the night in question in view of the police raid?" asked Mr. Jackson. The court ruled this question was irrelevant.

Mr. Jackson appealed to the fairness of the magistrate to "take this into consideration and draw your own conclusions and be fair to the Chinese people."

In summing up his case to the court, Mr. Jackson declared the men had not been arrested in a gambling house but on a public thoroughfare, Fan Tan Alley.

RAID TIPPED OFF?
The imminence of the police raid was known to operators of gambling houses in the alley, the evidence had shown, Mr. Jackson maintained. The defence witness had been in several places on that night and heard the police would make a raid.

ELECTION OF HOOVER SENDS STOCK PRICES UP IN THE U.S.

New York, Nov. 7.—A spectacular rally in stock prices was Wall Street's response at the opening of to-day's stock market to the election of Herbert Hoover as President of the United States. Curtiss Aeroplane opened with a block of 5,000 shares at $144.75, a gain of $10, and Timken Roller Bearing, Missouri Pacific, General Motors, Radio and Standard Oil of New Jersey opened with gains of $2 to $4 a share.

A tremendous accumulation of buying orders had poured into the market over election day. Blocks of 5,000 to 20,000 shares appeared on the tape at

NEW APARTMENT HOUSES TO BE BUILT IN CITY

Two Modern Structures Are Planned Close to Downtown Area

John Moxam Says Saturation Point Has Not Yet Been Reached

Two new apartment houses will be built in Victoria in the immediate future by Moxam and Todd, which firm recently erected the Waldron Apartments on Burdett Avenue, and is now completing a new building on Upper Yates Street.

"I am convinced there is room in this city for one or two apartment houses of the type we are building," said John Moxam, head of the firm, to-day. "The saturation point has not yet been reached."

"We are contemplating the construction of at least two other buildings as soon as we complete the Yates Street block."

BEST TYPE OF HOUSE
Mr. Moxam is of the opinion that the smaller type of apartment house, similar to the Waldron, which contains eight suites and was built at a cost of $40,000, are most desirable in this city. The building now being completed on Yates Street is designed along the same lines but is slightly smaller, containing five suites and erected at a cost of $25,000.

Sound-proof floors and walls are a feature of the apartment building, and Mr. Moxam has also invented a device which he claims will satisfactorily deaden sound conducted by means of radiator.

Each suite is equipped with every modern convenience and electrical refrigeration is being installed in all suites.

Questioned to-day as to the location of the two new apartment houses which he proposed to erect here, Mr. Moxam stated they would be centrally located and within easy distance of the business section.

MESSAGE TO PEOPLE OF U.S. FROM HOOVER

President-Elect Preparing Statement Thanking People For Vote of Confidence

Hoover Home, Stanford University Campus, Cal., Nov. 7.—Herbert Hoover, having had a restful night after the tumultuous demonstration given him by Stanford University students last night when his election as President of the United States had become assured, to-day set about preparing a message for the people, thanking them for their vote of confidence and another to his Democratic opponent, Alfred E. Smith, thanking him for his message of congratulation and hopes for success of his administration.

After that he will begin a form of rest and recreation of which he feels the need after the trying campaigning through which he has passed.

MODERATE IN VICTORY
He took the verdict with characteristic modesty and seemed actually embarrassed by the applause of more than half a hundred friends and visitors who were gathered at his home.

Mr. Hoover has realized two hopes that have lain close to his heart—election to the Presidency of the United States and the breaking of sectional political lines which have hemmed the South about since reconstruction days.

Trucks loaded of unsealed liquor have been seized by the provincial police. Places which used to operate wide-open, almost as in the old bar days, are now deserted. Policemen drove up in lorries and seized bottled supplies and, according to reports, there is not a place in New Westminster outside of the legal channels where a drink can be obtained.

New Westminster authorities point out that the action of Mr. Pooley is not an innovation. The provincial police before have swooped down on the city. In discussing the threat in the Royal City it has been argued that the expense of administering the law is one that should be borne by the provincial authorities because the city has no control over the source of bootleggers' supplies. The Police Commission of New Westminster has written a letter to Mr. Pooley on the subject, but this morning the Attorney-General did not have the communication before him.

Dr. MacLean Will Speak at Liberal Meeting To-morrow

Dr. J. D. MacLean, Liberal candidate for the by-election here on December 6, will speak at the organization meeting of Ward Four Liberals to be held in the headquarters of the Victoria Liberal Association to-morrow evening, at 8 o'clock.

A great and enthusiastic meeting is planned by the officers of the Ward. It will be the opening meeting of the campaign, which the Liberals in Victoria will conduct with the object of sending Dr. MacLean to Ottawa.

CHAMBERLAIN VISITS TORONTO

Toronto, Nov. 7.—Much improved in health, Right Hon. Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs arrived here this morning accompanied by Lady Chamberlain and their two children, Diane and Lawrence. While the visit is a private one, the statesman will be honored at several functions.

At the University of Toronto this afternoon honorary degrees were conferred on Sir Austen and Paul Claudel, French Ambassador to the United States.

The Chamberlain party was met at the North Toronto station this morning by Colonel Alex Fraser, aide-de-camp to Lieutenant-Governor Ross of Ontario and during the three days' visit they will be guests at Government House.

SS. PRINCE JOHN LOSES BY FIRE

Flames Do Damage to Vessel at North Vancouver Dock

North Vancouver, Nov. 7.—Fire which broke out at 10 this forenoon in the engine room of the steamship Prince John, lying at the yard of the Burrard Drydock Company, was extinguished after an hour's hard struggle by the North Vancouver Fire Department.

At one time it looked as though the ship was doomed, for great volumes of smoke belched from the lower deck. The ship, which is owned by the Canadian National Steamships Limited, was at the yard for installation of new boilers.

The cause of the fire has not been announced, and the damage done is not yet estimated.

NEW WESTMINSTER QUESTIONS RESPONSIBILITY FOR BOOTLEGGERS

Write the Police Commission of New Westminster was considering Attorney-General Pooley's threat to send in the provincial police and clean up the liquor situation if the local authorities did not act, the threat appears to have been carried out, according to reports reaching Victoria.

Trucks loaded of unsealed liquor have been seized by the provincial police. Places which used to operate wide-open, almost as in the old bar days, are now deserted. Policemen drove up in lorries and seized bottled supplies and, according to reports, there is not a place in New Westminster outside of the legal channels where a drink can be obtained.

Reports Indicate Hoover Has 444 Out of 531 Votes In U. S. Electoral College

Latest Dispatches Show Republican Candidate Leading for Presidency of United States in Forty States, and Smith, Democrat, Leading in Eight.

Washington, Nov. 7.—This afternoon the latest available results from yesterday's Presidential election in the United States showed Herbert Hoover, Republican, leading in forty states, giving a total Electoral College vote of 444, and Governor Alfred E. Smith, Democrat, leading in eight states, giving an Electoral College vote of eighty-seven.

The states in the Smith column were Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Rhode Island and South Carolina.

Smith secured heavy majorities in the southern states in his column and Rhode Island and Massachusetts were assured him to-day.

Texas and North Carolina in the Hoover group were swinging toward an even division.

The total popular vote available at noon gave Hoover 15,514,589 and Smith 11,215,012. In the whole country 80,282 districts out of 115,527 had reported.

The votes in the Electoral College total 531.

U.S. ELECTION INTERESTS B.C.

May Have Important Bearing on Agricultural Policies

Election of Herbert Hoover as President of the United States may have an important bearing on the agricultural policies of British Columbia, officials of the B.C. Department of Agriculture pointed out to-day in discussing the United States election results.

The whole of Western Canada may be virtually affected in the exportation of beef and dairy cattle by the tariff policies of the new administration. What attitude Mr. Hoover will take when United States farmers of the Middle West who supported him, and to whom he promised farm relief, place their demands before him when he takes office is awaited with interest.

WOULD HIT BRITISH COLUMBIA
An increased tariff on beef cattle and dairy stock would hit British Columbia and other western provinces and farmers of the United States, it is feared, may seek to bring this about by reviving the McNary-Haugen Farm Relief Bill, passed by the United States Senate and vetoed by President Coolidge. The vote in the Senate was short of the necessary two-thirds majority to override a veto.

SEVEN WOMEN ARE SENT TO U.S. CONGRESS BY VOTERS

Washington, Nov. 7. (By Associated Press).—When the arresting rap-rap of the gavel is heard in the House of Representatives at the opening of the seventy-first Congress of the United States, the higher pitched voices of women will sound more frequently than of old. There will be three additions to the feminine ranks of the House—all three, curiously enough, Ruths, and all with names well-known because of their accomplishments before they received this latest honor.

They are Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of Mark Hanna, herself a leader in Republican affairs, from Illinois; Mrs. Ruth Pratt, first woman sent to Congress from New York; and Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of William Jennings Bryan, Democrat, Florida.

A member of the growing group in Mrs. Katherine Langley, Republican, who was re-elected in her district in Kentucky.

Other Republican women succeeded their husbands in the House, Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts and Mrs. Florence Kahn of San Francisco, being elected, as was Mrs. Mary T. Norton of New Jersey, a Democrat.

Railways Testing Coal Freight Costs

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—Actual transportation costs of the experimental shipments of coal to Central Canada came before the Board of Railway Commissioners here yesterday. The hearing was adjourned since the representatives of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways that definite figures on the cost of these trial movements would not be available until March next.

The sitting was in conformity with orders-in-council passed by the federal government last spring, authorizing reimbursement from the federal exchequer to the railway companies for any losses entailed on the $6.75 a ton rate from Alberta to Ontario; and the one-fifth of a cent a ton mile reduction in the westward haul of Mar-time coal. The trial movement authorized covers a period of three years.

According to relatives, Mr. Inglis had been dependent for some time owing to ill-health.

RUPTURE Expert in Victoria

Rupture is not a tear or breach in the abdomen as commonly supposed, but a dilation or stretching of a natural opening due to weakness or strain sufficient to permit the viscera to protrude, therefore nothing to knit or sew—as ignorantly believed, but same will contract or close if the contents be kept out of it. This opening is never larger than a nickel, seldom larger than a ten-cent piece—so why use big pads to cover small openings or wear trusses where the lump is instead of where the opening is, as everybody does. Rupture can be held with the end of a lead pencil. The smaller the Rupture, the greater the danger, hence Ruptures more difficult to retain. Incisional Ruptures (resulting from operations), are the most difficult and complicated as well as a positive and permanent injury.

"Seelye's Rupture Shield" will not only retain any case of rupture, perfectly, but contracts the opening in ten days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods exemplifying instantaneous effects. Immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incisional ruptures (following operations) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions.

CAUTION—Avoid all elastic or web trusses with underparts, or other styles of the usual trade patterns, as they invariably rest where the lump is, and that is not where the opening is.

WILL SUCCEED COOLIDGE AT WHITE HOUSE NEXT MARCH

An artist's sketch of Herbert Clark Hoover, who yesterday was elected thirty-first President of the United States.

Hoover, Named President Of the United States, Is Known As Great Organizer

Washington, Nov. 7.—Herbert Hoover, elected President of the United States yesterday, won a notable niche in the business world before he turned to politics, but it was his work as food administrator in the Great War period that laid the foundation of his political career. To the starving peoples left in the wake of advancing armies came relief directed by Hoover.

From the work of the American Relief Committee that exterminated the United States—tourists of 1914—Mr. Hoover was drafted immediately to a far greater task—the effort to feed and supply the Belgian population. He helped organize the commission for relief in Belgium, and took its first step under Mr. Hoover's direction, $1,500,000 advanced by loans from the Allied Governments or given by charity. It was operating a fleet of 200 steamships, and the peoples of northern France and Belgium had only during four and a half years only by its functioning.

U.S. FOOD ADMINISTRATOR

When the United States went into the war, President Wilson promptly appointed Mr. Hoover food administrator of the United States, though Mr. Hoover remained in charge of the Belgian Commission. While the peace conference was going on the American Relief Administration, which Mr. Hoover headed, was feeding children in twenty-three different nations, and adults in half as many.

No part of American war activity had attracted more attention than the Hoover relief enterprises, in the United States and abroad, and when in 1920 the season for presidential politics opened, his name was early bruited about for the foremost political honor the nation can give.

CONTRADICTIONS SEEN

Hardly anything but the social upheaval of the war could have brought to the front rank of United States political life a personality at once so curiously gifted and so curiously strained. Though an almost intuitive grasp of group psychology was one basis of Mr. Hoover's success, first in organizing industry and later in meeting the huge emergencies of famine and pestilence, his contacts with strangers always exhibited him as impassive, withdrawn individual, incapable of demonstrativeness and devoid of impressiveness.

LEARNED POLITICS

Mr. Hoover's first Presidential effort was simple fiasco. Standing as a Republican delegate, the total plan behind Hoover's name in the conventions of 1920 was humiliating. All that was left of the bitterness of failure was ambition to try again. He buckled down to learn the game of politics; to conform to its traditions, and accepted President Harding's invitation to take the post of Secretary of Commerce.

FOUND COMPROMISES

A man of no pretension, wedded to a simplicity that makes him careful even to use the shortest words, he could not at first make a platform speech unless seriously stirred. He could write well and turn a striking phrase; he had a delightful sense of humor, but he did not much like a crowd. Outside of an intellect admittedly first class, and the stored memory of a lifetime of inveterate work, he had but one quality of important political value. That was his capacity for assimilating the viewpoints of conflicting and competing groups and of puzzling out feasible compromises. The gift was akin to that ordinarily demonstrated by legislators of long service and in combination with administrative experience it took him a long way on the road that had been laid out.

For there was plenty for a man of his mark to tackle. The Government had to unwind the tangle of war in forty different directions. Hoover's reputation was soon to be tested. The President literally used him as the shock troop leader to take up each of the harder points.

CUT AWAY RED TAPE

Hoover's long experience in organization let him climb free almost instantly of the departmental routine that sometimes buries a Cabinet officer for the rest of political life. He had his desk clear, and in a matter of weeks was fitting from one conference to another. He worked out a well-defined method for such things. First there would be a preliminary Hoover investigation of the situation coming up, and then there would be some quiet and unnoted meetings with parties interested and supposedly best informed. This second stage was frequently around the Hoover dinner table.

All was far from being rosy with the various Hoover forays into the political economy of the nation from 1921 till 1924. In the case of the coal industry, driven by strife and strike, the Hoover methods scored something close to failure. The repeated strikes broadened in 1922 to take in the rail road shop crafts, the situation revolving around cheap non-union coal production in the south and expensive union coal production in the north could only wear itself out.

HELPED PUBLIC

In it finally Hoover's concern began to be that of trying to help the general public while the locked-fores played out. He successfully got non-union coal producers to hold down prices when the union strikes eliminated competition from union producers, although there was much caving in the attempt. He is at his best under pressure, in contests, and coal producers who agreed to sell for $3 a ton when they could have taken $10 learned something about that.

"I warn you gentlemen now," he thundered out at one gathering where the programme was arranged, "that either you bring about this arrangement within your own industry to protect the people of the United States or the Government of the country will lay such a hold on your industry that you will never get rid of it again."

These things leave political scars. Hoover failed to carry the Presidential primaries in the coal state of West Virginia.

Born in Iowa in August, 1874, Herbert Hoover was taken to Oregon by his uncle, Dr. H. J. Minthorn, in 1885, shortly after the death of the boy's mother, a widow.

The doctor and Mrs. Minthorn cared for Herbert as though he was their own. Upon arriving in Newberg, Oregon, Dr. Minthorn, a staunch Quaker, started Pacific Academy, now known as Pacific College in the tiny Quaker settlement. For three years the boy, Herbert, attended that school. B. S. Cook, Portland real estate man, was Dr. Minthorn's colleague in organizing the school, and was trustee of the institution.

STARTED AS OFFICE BOY

At about that time the Oregon Land Company was organized in Salem, a small town then. Dr. Minthorn and Cook were the organizers and they gave Hoover a position as office boy.

"Became the best office boy any firm ever had," Cook said as he reviewed the old days. "He never fussed around and he stayed home nights in the office. And he knew, too, just when anybody would want anything in the office."

LIFE STORY OF CURTIS, ELECTED IN U.S. ROMANCE

Man Chosen Vice-President Was Born on Indian Reservation in Kansas

Topeka, Kans., Nov. 7.—From a cradle in a log cabin to the Vice-President's chair in the United States Senate.

Such will be the life story of Charles Curtis, when on March 4 next, he becomes the presiding officer of the legislative body in which he has served for twenty years.

After holding public office almost continuously since the age of twenty-four, the Kansas Senator will begin at sixty-nine to serve as Vice-President of the United States as a result of the election yesterday.

BORN ON RESERVATION

The man who has worn the toga so long wrapped himself in an Indian blanket when he was a boy. He was born in a log cabin on the Kaw Reservation in Kansas January 25, 1890. His birthplace was on the site of Topeka and his birth preceded by a year the admission of Kansas into the union.

His great-great grandfather was Chief White Plume of the Kaws, who was the grandson of Chief Pawhuska of the CHARLES CURTIS who triumphed at the polls yesterday with Herbert Hoover.

Onages. His mother was Ellen Pappan, one-fourth Indian and three-fourths French, and his father was Capt. Corren Curtis, a Yankee of Puritan stock. While Capt. Curtis was away, fighting for the Union, his wife died and their three-year-old son remained on the Kaw Reservation with his Indian grandmother.

FEAT DURING FIGHTING

When eight years old the boy was the hero of a spectacular deed that perhaps saved many Kaws from scalp by the bloodthirsty Cheyennes, but took him away from his mother's people. The Cheyennes went on the warpath in 1898, vowing to destroy all white settlers and all Indians friendly to the pale faces. They surrounded the Kaw Reservation, which was then near Council Grove, Kas., and the beleaguered Indians selected the great-grandson of Chief White Plume to try to slip past the Cheyennes with a message to white soldiers stationed at Topeka.

The son of the Union army officer was successful with the only military mission of his life and the Kaws were rescued. But the boy remained in Topeka with his father and white grandmother. He sold apples and peanuts at a railroad station and attended school for a few months in the winters.

When he was fourteen he heard the Kaws to be moved again, this time from the state named after the tribe to Indian territory, now Oklahoma. He hurried back to his grandmother Pappan, and told her he would accompany her to the new home in the direction of the noonday sun.

But the French-Indian woman told her grandson the future of red men was as uncertain as their present was unhappy, and she urged him to stay with his father's people.

First Salute For Hoover From Air

Hoover Home, Stanford University Campus, Nov. 6.—Herbert Hoover received his first presidential salute from the air last night as a plane from the Palo Alto School of Aviation flew over his home and dropped twenty-one shell star bombs.

The President-elect was standing on the terrace of his home acknowledging the boisterous greetings of the Stanford students and the Palo Alto townspeople. The salute of the President-elect was made after a throng of college students, neighbors from Palo Alto, and Sousa's Band had staged a demonstration in front of his home. While the band played and the students cheered and sang, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover stood watching from the terrace above. The whole scene was lighted by the glare of Klieg lights from the ground below, and while it was being enacted below, an aeroplane flying above gave him his first presidential salute by exploding twenty-one bombs in the air.

MR. HOOVER'S VICTORY

WHILE THE VICTORY OF MR. Hoover in the presidential election yesterday was expected by most impartial observers, few were bold enough to predict so overwhelming a Republican landslide. At this writing it is doubtful if Mr. Smith will have more than one-fifth of the 531 votes of the Electoral College, although the popular vote was not so one-sided. In some states support was fairly equally divided, but the Hoover advantage was sufficient to carry the electoral votes of those localities.

The total vote polled broke all records; never before has there been such a large turnout of electors in every state. Obviously this was due for the most part to the prominence of the two chief candidates whose names are household terms in every American home. But there were developments of the contest of even sharper significance. Mr. Smith was beaten in his own state—his stronghold—which has forty-five votes in the Electoral College. True, he had a big lead in New York city, where he had hoped for a majority large enough to offset the expected Republican majorities from precincts of the state outside of New York. In his last contest for governor his majority in New York city was nearly half a million. Yesterday it was 400,000—a long way short of Hoover's majority from outside points in the state.

Perhaps more striking still was the successful invasion of the "solid south" by the Republican Party. Florida and Virginia went Republican for the first time since the Civil War. Then what of the farming area of the middle west? It was originally expected that much of this section would go to Mr. Smith. Although it has been normally Republican, it was believed to be bitterly opposed to the Republican party because of the attitude of the Coolidge administration to farm relief. Prominent progressive Republicans like Senator Norris were out for Smith. Yet it went heavily for Hoover.

The truth of the matter is, this was no ordinary presidential election. It differed from many others in more than one way. For instance, it is seldom that men of such outstanding personalities and ability as Mr. Hoover and Mr. Smith have met in the final contest. The nominating conventions, comparatively speaking, were tame affairs. It was almost a foregone conclusion that these two would be the candidates. There was little of that jockeying for position at either Houston or Kansas such as has been apparent at other gatherings of this kind. The explanation of the various sensational and significant developments yesterday may be found in the nature of the two outstanding issues of the campaign—prohibition and religion. The former was a big factor in the agrarian area which is notoriously "dry"; the latter weakened the Smith forces in the traditionally Democratic and strongly Protestant south.

No matter what views we in this country may have on the subject of the neighboring republic's dry law, it is obvious, and has been obvious for some time, that the people of the United States do not propose to try any new experiment in the liquor business. It is safe to say that this issue accounts for the switch of what some months ago was patently an anti-Republican sentiment in the agricultural section to Mr. Hoover.

The tariff cut very little figure in the contest. Mr. Hoover stated that he would not increase it. Mr. Smith said if he were elected he would not touch it. For this reason Canada's interest in the outcome of yesterday's voting is more or less academic. The people of this Dominion may be assured, however, that in Mr. Hoover the United States will have an administrator who will be a good friend of Canada, one who will live up to the traditions of peaceful intercourse—an ideal international relationship.

CANADIAN TOBACCO GROWING

ONE OF THE MOST SATISFACTORY developments in Canada's agriculture is the greater stability in her most recent farming venture—the growing of tobacco. The subject is of interest not only to Canada but to the United States, because of the fact that Canadian tobacco competes with American, and it is of moment to Great Britain because of the increasing importance of Canada and other countries within the Empire as sources of leaf tobacco.

In the two previous years the opportunity of selling Empire-grown tobacco in Great Britain under a preferential tariff led to unrestrained enthusiasm in Canada, when it was demonstrated that the soil and climate of several districts, mainly in southwestern Ontario, were suitable for the production of this commodity. There was, however, much ill-advised and unremunerative effort, and as a result it was finally brought home to many individual growers that a considerable part of their crops was not readily saleable, either in Canada or Great Britain, because of their poor quality, or because they included types for which there was but little demand. Furthermore, it was apparently overlooked at first that the British preferential tariff extended to all the countries of the Empire, and that it afforded advantages at least equal to those enjoyed by Canada to two colonies, Rhodesia and Nyassaland, where great areas of suitable land were available in climates particularly favorable for the growth of the tobacco plant. Both countries produced almost entirely for export and it came into competition with that exported by Canada.

For a time manufacturers in the United Kingdom were able to use practically all the colonial tobacco which was offered, but a year ago it was found that any further increase must be the result of an educational campaign to induce the smoking public to accept mixtures with a slightly different aroma from that to which they had long been accustomed, for tobacco grown throughout the Empire, even under the most favorable conditions, has not quite the same flavor as the American product.

The acreage planted in Canada this year was somewhat larger than in 1927 and generally the tobacco recently harvested shows a high yield per acre and good quality, though heavy rains in August flooded some fields and a heavy frost late in September damaged part of the crop in one district. An improvement in the methods of cultivating and curing is noticeable, indicating that proper methods have been adopted by many growers. Fortunately there has been a shift to the types required by British and Canadian manufacturers and, therefore, the acreage in burley has been reduced somewhat, while that in dark tobacco—which, if fire-cured, is in demand in Great Britain—has increased, as also has that of bright leaf. The latter, used chiefly for cigarettes, can readily be sold in the domestic market, as Canada still needs to import fully twice as much of this type as she grows.

There is, however, the prospect that Canada will shortly be less dependent on foreign bright leaf, as there is thought to be suitable for production of this type in Norfolk County in Ontario, where the total acreage has increased five-fold in the last year, at least double the area now under cultivation.

MR. BALDWIN'S TASK

ALTHOUGH PREMIER BALDWIN has a little to worry about in a straight party division in the House of Commons, it is pretty safe to assume that he enters on the session which commenced yesterday with considerably less hope of winning next year's election than he no doubt felt he was entitled to entertain twelve months ago. He still has a majority of more than two hundred and there is little danger of any of those members kicking over the traces. The Prime Minister's principal difficulty, however, does not lie in this direction; his object this session must be to give the electorate something to induce them to endorse his Government when it appeals to the country. Impartial observers over there, never failing to pay tribute to Mr. Baldwin's honesty of purpose in all he undertakes, are doubtful about his ability to prepare the "ground" sufficiently to guarantee success.

The reason for this doubt is apparent. In the last two years the Government has been losing votes and in a number of byelections it has lost seats to Liberal and Labor parties. It has retained other seats with very considerably reduced majorities. It has borrowed an additional handicap by retaining office for the full length of the constitutional term. Whether either a Liberal or a Labor government could have dealt with the perplexing industrial and economic situation in a more efficient manner than has the present Government we may not know. The fact that the number of unemployed is increasing rather than decreasing, despite the adoption of "safeguarding," obviously gives the Government's opponents material for criticism. It would not be surprising if the fate of Mr. Baldwin and his Ministry at the polls is largely determined by the debate on the Anglo-French naval controversy. The joint opposition may be depended upon to exploit the discussion of this issue to the fullest extent.

STRIKES IN AUSTRALIA

The Belfast Northern Whig

It may be that this defiance of laws is part of the independent spirit of a young and vigorous people opposed to restraint of any kind. But we believe that the better sense of Australia must be in full revolt against a policy which, to outsiders at least, is suicidal; and that here as elsewhere the community will win.

HUNTING ABUSES

The Hamilton Spectator

Shotgun totes, whose delight it is at this time of the year to blast the everlasting daylight out of things that fly, will find food for thought in the intimation, that comes from Queen's Park that there will be no open dates for pheasant shooting this year. It is further stated that the question of quail shooting is also being considered by the department. Danger of extermination of pheasants is said to have been the major consideration that prompted the departmental ban, but there is a belief that abuses of the privilege by those who "go a-hunting" helped the authorities arrive at their decision. Complaints were made by landowners of Lincoln and Welland that on "open dates" for pheasant shooting, their properties were damaged and that when the pheasants refused to co-operate and were shot at farm livestock. It is an old story, this one of abuse of privilege.

Clubs are tramps, and South has the lead. North and South must win five of the six tricks, against a perfect defence.

Lay out the cards on a table, as shown in this diagram. Study the situation and see if you can find the proper solution. Remember, there is only one method of play that will enable North and South to win five of the six tricks. After you have tried it, look at the answer and see if you did it right.

SOLUTION TO-MORROW.
In this problem, which may seem easy at first glance, an apparently ridiculous discard is the only possible way of arriving at the solution. South leads the king of diamonds. North discards the ace of hearts, and East trumps with the six. If East next leads a heart, with West trumping South's ten, North will overtrump. If East first takes out trumps, then leads a heart, South will win the fifth trick with his ten and north the last trick with the ace of spades. But an opening lead of any card other than the king of diamonds will give East and West all of the six tricks. (Copyright, 1928, NEA Service, Inc.)

WORKED AS JOCKEY

So Charley returned to his grandmother Curtis. But among the white settlers of early Kansas nearly every boy had to work for a living. Charley disliked the job of vending apples, and the riding of horses was more fitting to his Indian nature. He became a jockey and won many a race.

Later he drove a hack at night, while attending school in the day. He continued hack driving when he studied law in the office of A. H. Case. At twenty-one he was admitted to the bar, becoming Case's partner, and three years later he was elected county attorney. During four years in this office he proved the Kansas prohibition law could be enforced, and his fame as a prosecutor spread beyond the borders of Shawnee County.

In 1892, Curtis won a seat in the lower house of Congress and held it until 1907, when he was elected United States Senator. Four years ago he became Republican leader in the Senate.

INFLUENCE WAS GREAT

Curtis's ability was discovered soon after he went to Washington and he exercised great influence in both the Senate and the House. He rarely made a speech, but he mastered the rules of the two Houses and had the happy faculty of retaining friendships from all of the opposing groups.

In the Senate he was made Republican whip and assistant to Senator Lodge, who was leader of the Senate for many years. At the death of Senator Lodge he was elevated to the leadership with virtually no opposition. Thus the toga of a scholarly New Englander fell upon the shoulders of an Indian, born and bred in the West.

Curtis married Anna Baird, of Topeka, in 1884, a few days after he was elected to his first public office. She died in 1924. The senator has two daughters, Mrs. Webster Knight, Providence, R.I., and Mrs. Charles P. George, Fort Sill, Okla., and one son, Harry Curtis, a Chicago lawyer.

Hon. J. H. King Addresses Vancouver Centre Liberal Association

Vancouver, Nov. 7.—Vancouver Centre Liberal Association was congratulated at its annual meeting in O'Brien Hall last night by Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Pensions and National Health, upon the enthusiasm and hopefulness with which it conducted its business. The infusion of new young blood into the executive was held to be an augury of progress for the Liberal Party in this city.

R. M. Edgar was re-elected president by acclamation.

Brief addresses were heard from Dr. King, Dugald Donaghy, K.C., W. F. Hanbury and President Edgar.

GROWTH OF VOTE

Mr. Edgar, referring to the assistance rendered by the association in the recent provincial election campaign, reminded his audience that the Liberals had polled 14,000 more votes in the city last July than they did in the 1924 election and said this was a cause for gratification.

Dr. King, after reviewing the law governing appointments to the civil service and the policy followed by the Government to obtain appointments to offices outside the service which would reflect credit on the administration and the party, said it was no accident, but a matter for Liberal pride that the two greatest periods of prosperity in Canada's history had been during the regimes of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Premier King.

Dr. King said he could not understand the logic of public men in Vancouver, a city fast becoming one of the greatest ports in the world, advocating policies restrictive of trade.

Dr. King, referring to the assistance rendered by the association in the recent provincial election campaign, reminded his audience that the Liberals had polled 14,000 more votes in the city last July than they did in the 1924 election and said this was a cause for gratification.

TRAVELED FAR

In the succeeding twenty years, first as mine laborer, then as mine manager and operator, in many of the most desolate places of the world where mineral wealth is found he made for himself a unique reputation as a large fortune. To admitted technical proficiency as an engineer—his books and monographs are standard textbooks in colleges to-day—Mr. Hoover combined sound ability in organizing and financing, and became identified, with a group of offices in London and New York which engaged in mining and metallurgical enterprises in most of the world.

From West Australia he had gone to China, and was engaged in the development of coal and iron deposits when the Boxer rebellion cooped him up with other foreigners in Peking, where he was held for two years. Before the Allied troops relieved the legation prisoners he had organized his first food relief for Chinese and other refugees. He built a port there later, for the owners of the mining properties, and thereafter in Burma, Russia, Alaska and Mexico, intimated or directed enterprises which were for the most part successful. In 1913 it was estimated that 175,000 men were employed by the corporations for which he was acting as executive engineer. He maintained his connections with scholastic and research activities as well, and found time during the period to translate, with the collaboration of his wife, "De Res Metallica," a Latin work which is the earliest known treatise on mining. He married in 1899

Mr. Flower will precede the visit to Victoria of the Stratford-Upon-Avon

Festival Company and will arrive here on November 19, accompanied by Mrs. Flower, Miss Evadne Flower and Mrs. Alastair Erskine, all of whom will be the guests of the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Mackenzie at Government House during their stay in Victoria.

May Establish New Department to Handle B. C. Motor Traffic

Creation of New Machinery to Handle Highway Problems Under Consideration by Public Works Minister; Thomas Taylor, Former Member of McBride Government, Reported in Line for Commissionership; Diversion of West Coast Road Through Cowichan Lake District Sought by Up-Island Board.

Establishment of a separate branch of the Department of Public Works to deal with highways alone is reported to be included in the plans of Hon. N. S. Loughheed, Minister of Public Works, in his announcement that he sees the need of the creation of new machinery under his department to keep pace with the development of entirely new problems.

Thomas Taylor, a former Minister of Public Works in the McBride Government, is at present at the Parliament Buildings consulting with the department on road matters and automobile traffic and reports were current that the position of highway commissioner was to be created, with Mr. Taylor the appointee. This report, however, was unconfirmed by Mr. Loughheed. From time to time it will be necessary to call in surveyors or engineers or other men of experience, he says in this connection.

FEDERAL AID

Meanwhile the Government is giving considerable attention to highway matters. Premier Tomin recently urged Chambers of Commerce and automobile clubs of British Columbia to press for federal aid for highways. The Federal Government, particularly the post office, uses the roads to a great extent, and it is only right that they should help in building these highways, says the Premier. In 1919 the Federal Government made an appropriation of $20,000,000 for this purpose, and it was distributed on the basis of a forty-per-cent federal expenditure and sixty-per-cent provincial expenditure. The appropriation was used up by 1926 and efforts to secure another appropriation have so far not met with success.

Since it took office the new Government has been besieged with demands for road expenditure and, with early announcements that money for road work was used up, most of the delegations have been told that their applications will be "given consideration." Heavy road expenditures are sought both on the Mainland and on Vancouver Island.

WEST COAST ROAD

Recommendations on the West Coast Road have been forwarded to the Government by the Duncan Board of Trade. The request is made that it be diverted through the Cowichan Lake district. In support of the request it is claimed that there are insurmountable difficulties in the way of the route along the Coast, making the cost of the road prohibitive. The grade through Cowichan is claimed to be good, it being even possible to use abandoned railway right-of-way in places. By the use of existing roads and these easy grades Cowichan Lake could be linked up with Port Renfrew on the south, with Alberni on the north. This would create two highway loops from Victoria and Nanaimo through Duncan.

The Up-Island advocates of the road claim that the trip over the Malahat from Victoria to Duncan thence to Cowichan Lake, by the present road and from there back again to Victoria by the proposed new road should be very popular with tourists and Duncan should benefit considerably by the resulting trade. It is also claimed that the West Coast district could be adequately served by radiating roads running down to the scattered settlements.

WORK ON MALAHAT

Work on the Malahat will be continued, it is understood, with a widening of the road and an improvement of the Shawanigan Lake cut-off. Also included in the programme of roadwork which the Provincial Government will undertake in the near future is the extension of the road along the north side of Cowichan Lake from the end of the present highway to Youbou and steps will be taken to open a highway into the Robertson River district, an important logging area on the south shore of Cowichan Lake. Further pressure has been brought upon the Government for the immediate hard surfacing of the Yale section of the transprovincial highway, residents of the valley between New Westminster and Hope calling for the improvement of the highway on the south side of the Fraser River.

Full responsibility by the Provincial Government for the maintenance of all highways in the Province is recommended by the Surrey Board of Trade, and an increase in the gasoline tax to provide for hard surfacing is recommended. The day has passed, the board claims, when the cost of maintaining rural roads can be charged entirely against land.

Hoover Leads In Vote in Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Governor Smith early today lost the lead over Herbert Hoover he had held in Chicago since the polls closed yesterday when 2,560 precincts out of 3,358 in Cook County gave the Republican nominee for the United States Presidency a plurality of 436 votes. Smith's total was 552,063 and Hoover's 552,499.

RHODE ISLAND VOTES FOR SMITH

Providence, R.I., Nov. 7.—In the United States presidential election Governor Smith was assured of Rhode Island this morning when 194 of the state's 196 precincts gave him a lead of 118,323 to 115,596 over Herbert Hoover.

United States Senator Peter Gerry was defeated by Felix Herbert, Republican, Herbert leading 117,206 to 115,419 with the two remaining precincts sure to increase his vote.

NIAGARA NOT TO DOCK UNTIL LATE FRIDAY EVENING

Although no definite word regarding the arrival of the R.M.S. Niagara here from Australia has been received in the city yet, it is thought that she will dock late Friday night or early Saturday morning. She was scheduled to arrive on Friday morning, but last evening at 8 o'clock she reported her position to the Gonzales Wireless Station as 1,237 miles from Victoria. The Niagara averages about 400 miles a day, which should bring her here Friday night. She is carrying a fair passenger list to Victoria and Vancouver this trip and an exceptionally heavy cargo, composed mostly of New Zealand butter. The liner has aboard 24,740 boxes of butter, including 2,050 boxes for Victoria, 17,120 boxes for Vancouver, and large consignments for other parts of Canada. China will get 2,500 boxes which will be transhipped from Victoria. The liner is also bringing a big cargo of frozen Australian mutton for Canadian consumption.

NO DOLE FOR HIM

SAMUEL GEORGE DODGE was a railway porter in England, but work was so uncertain that he decided to come to Canada and get something permanent. The Canadian National Railway's Colonization Department found him a place on a Saskatchewan farm. Today, after a few months' experience, he is a landholder and has made up his mind that there is nothing better than farming in the west. He has a homestead near Margo, Sask. "When I go back to England," he says, "it will be for a holiday."

TEN BILLION DOLLARS—IN DRESS SUITS!—Wealth of inconceivable proportions—about ten billion dollars—is represented by the men you see here. All but one are pioneers of American industry. They met in New York City at a dinner sponsored by Columbia University, the Institute of American Meat Packers and the New York State Chamber of Commerce. Left to right: Harvey S. Firestone; Julius Rosenberg; Thomas A. Edison; Sir Thomas Lipton, a guest; Charles M. Schwab; Henry Ford; Walter Chrysler; George Eastman.

NEVER INSULTED!

The young man had been overjoyed at getting a job as commercial traveler, as he had been out of work for many months, but by the time he had reached Plymouth, he began to feel rather fed-up. "How are you getting on?" inquired an old hand at the game. "Badly," was the reply. "I have been insulted at every place I have visited." "That's strange," was the reply. "I've been on the road forty years. I have had my samples flung into the street. I have been taken by the scruff of the neck and hurled downstairs, and I don't deny that I have been rolled in the gutter. But, insulted—never!" "But you don't know the difference between Noah's Ark and Joan of Arc," one youngster challenged. "I do, too," said his pal, "they were made of different material." "What yer mean?" "One was made of wood and the other was Maid of Orleans." "So you have been to Berlin to see relations about an inheritance—how did you make out?" "I went first-class and came back third."

"There ought to be only one head to every family," declared the earnest speaker in the club.

"That's true," agreed a worried-looking man standing by the mantel making figures on a piece of paper. "You agree, do you?" asked the first man with a smile.

"Indeed I do," was the answer. "I've just paid for hats for nine daughters."

LONG SLEEP MAKES BABY HAPPY AGAIN

"Our baby kept waking us several times a night, until we started giving him a little Castoria after his last nursing," says an Iowa mother. "He slept soundly from the first night and he made him look and feel worlds better." Baby specialists endorse Fletcher's Castoria; and millions of mothers know how this purely-vegetable, harmless preparation helps babies and children, with colic, constipation, colds, diarrhea, etc. The Fletcher signature is always on the wrapper of genuine Castoria. Avoid imitations. (Advt.)

Nanking Good Government Embraces Heavy Tax Levies
Canadian Wheat Largely Imported by Tyrolese.

The Nationalist administration of China is making a determined effort to give good government and is attempting to pattern its government after the style of civilized nations even to the extent of levying taxes, according to William S. Bowman, of the Asiatic Petroleum Company at Shanghai, who is to-day staying at the Dominion Hotel.

"Immediately the Nationalists assumed power in China they started to impose taxes, chiefly on the transport of merchandise, and as they became more certain of their tenure of office the government leaders proceeded to make the taxes heavier," said Mr. Bowman this morning.

Peking as the seat of Government has definitely been abandoned by the Nationalists and the foreign embassies and legations are now considering early removal to Nanking, which has been selected as the new Chinese capital.

Mr. Bowman emphasizes that business in China has steadily shown improvement since the Nationalist Government took over control, and banditry, he declares, is now on the decrease. Bandits are ruthlessly rounded up by the military and summarily dealt with.

Mr. Bowman, who is returning to England on a furlough, arrived in Victoria last night by the liner Arizona Maru from Yokohama.

TYROL IS IMPORTER OF CANADIAN WHEAT

The Tyrol provinces in central Europe are large importers of Canadian wheat. It was learned to-day from Fritz Rauch, of Innsbruck, who is here on business and staying at the Dominion Hotel.

Mr. Rauch, who operates a flour mill at Innsbruck, came to Canada a few weeks ago to place an order for wheat supply and was a recent visitor to Winnipeg.

The picturesque little principality, nestled among the Tyrolean mountains is one of the most attractive tourist resorts in Europe.

The mountain resorts of Innsbruck attract thousands of visitors each year, largely from Germany, Great Britain and the United States, according to Mr. Rauch.

The principality boasts a population of 350,000.

Lion Hounds - Two of Them - To Visit London

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times, England, Nov. 7.—England leads the world as a dog-breeding country. It has now become a national industry.

This year's entry list at the Kennel Club Show at the Crystal Palace is the largest ever known in the history of dog shows. It consists of 6,755 dogs, worth altogether more than £300,000.

Two dogs of a breed never seen in England before will be at the show. They are two of the lion hounds, brought over from Kenya by Mrs. Edmund Foljambe, the big game hunter. They stand about two feet high and weigh about sixty pounds.

America buys all breeds of dog. Terriers are sold to France, Germany and Holland. After Austria, India is England's biggest customer, and, of course, our dominions buy valuable dogs. The English dog is the cocker spaniel, which forms the largest class in the show.

THOUSAND-GUINEA DOGS

Pekingese are the most costly toy dogs. A good one costs 1,000 guineas. Papillons are about £100. The most highly priced dog at the moment is an Alsatian, Caro of Welham, who was sold for £2,000. Mrs. Earl Hoove, wife of the carpet-sweeper millionaire of Chicago, recently bought a Chow, Choonan Brilliantine, from an English breeder, Mrs. Manooch. A Sealham priced at 1,000 guineas also found a purchaser the other day on the other side of the Atlantic.

Indian prices are good customers. The Maharajah of Patiala recently spent £10,000 on a hundred British dogs, and offered a woman breeder a large sum for a Labrador, which was, however, refused. The Maharajah of Jind is also a great dog lover, and buys a large number of dogs.

There is a constant trade with all countries for animals costing £500, which is not considered very newsworthy for a champion. A champion dog is more valuable at the present time than a hunter, for which five or six hundred pounds is a good price.

Cannibals Preceded By Gold Seekers

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times, London, Nov. 7.—Traces of an old civilization in the wild, mountainous country of New Guinea, show that Australians are by no means the first to seek gold.

A most interesting system, has just been discovered of terraced irrigation by means of interlocked bamboo piles, which is regarded as certain evidence that tribes which to-day betray a cannibalistic tendency went at one time associated with some prehistoric civilization.

The view is borne out by the unearthing at the Edie Creek goldfields of voin stones and pestles, and mortars identical in type with those used by the ancient Egyptians. These immigrants, says the Government anthropologist, are believed to have been gold seekers.

The modern equivalent for locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen is blowing out the match after the gas tank has blown up.

HORSESHOE PITCH PLANS PROGRESS

Chamber of Commerce Directors to Consider Approval of Scheme

Establishment of an enclosed ring for horseshoe pitching in Victoria was yesterday referred by the tourist trade group to the directors of the Chamber of Commerce for approval.

Under the plan sponsored by the tourist group a building costing approximately $4,500 would be built. This amount would cover a building fifty-nine feet by about seventy-two feet, containing a club room, lockers, lavatory and six sinks, forty feet in length.

H. D. Patterson, chairman, pointed out that the pitch would be a great attraction for visitors from the prairies, who very often become tired of their stay here after a few days. Horseshoe pitching was a popular sport on the prairies, he said, and the establishment of the pitch would therefore be greatly welcomed by this group of tourists.

The necessity of having a central location for the pitch was stressed by Mr. Patterson.

El J. Martin referred to the manner in which a horseshoe rink in Pasadena, California, was operated through membership and small playing fees.

REALTY ACTIVITY HERE INCREASING

Real estate activity here continues to grow daily.

Reports to-day centred around the Fort Douglas-Broughton-Broad city block, for which extensive rebuilding plans are now being completed. It was reported that the three-story Walter Building, home of the Elks Club and Sprot-Shaw Schools, at Douglas and Broughton Streets, had been sold, but this was denied. This afternoon by Otto Weller, who said definitely that no deal had gone through and that no deal was in progress.

Mr. Weller also said that nothing had been done yet regarding the ground floor of the building, which is linked up with the plans of a local druggist to establish a modern drug store on that corner, with a luxurious ice cream parlor and an afternoon and evening dance resort in the rear, embracing the back of adjoining property facing on Fort Street.

MAHON BUILDING

The Mahon Building, at 1112 Government Street, has been bought by Fred Spencer, head of the General Warehouse, a quantity retail selling firm, which has occupied the Government Street ground floor of the building since last June. The second floor of the building is occupied by general offices and dancing and music studios. The property runs through from street to street. On Langley Street there is a lower third floor, occupied by commission agents. Mr. Spencer, who came to Victoria from Nanaimo seven years ago, bought the Mahon business at 527 Yates Street.

Shaw; first king, Mr. Herbert Hewett; second king, Mr. Arthur Long; third king, Mr. Anthony Easton; other king, Mr. Noel Jones; "St. Joseph," Mr. George Henry Hallett; the angel, Miss Francis Hamilton; the prodigal, Miss Grace Vincent and Miss Geraldine Rutherford-Shaw; "Maria," Mrs. Ebb-Cavanah and Mrs. Arthur Long.

Removal of Elk Lake Brush Is Proposal

Removal of brush and small trees from the East side of Elk Lake, facing the highway, will be considered at the meeting of the Victoria and Saanich parks and beaches committee Friday afternoon.

Attention of the Tourist Trade Group of the Chamber of Commerce to the brush at the lake, which blocks the lake view from the highway, was brought yesterday by Ernest D. Tadd, 508 Island Road, who pointed out the highway would also be made safer by the removal of the brush. The group decided to take the matter up with the parks and Victoria-Saanich beaches committee through its representatives, A. E. Humphries, D. W. Campbell and D. MacGarry.

Severe Quake Is Recorded Here

Superintendent Napier Denison of the Gonzales Observatory, reported yesterday an earthquake of severe intensity had been recorded on the seismograph commencing at 9:29 o'clock Monday night and continuing for three hours. Centre of the disturbance was estimated by Mr. Denison to be 2,500 miles from Victoria, probably in the western extremity of the Aleutian Islands.

Shows Style

Now that so many girls are allowing their hair to grow again, this style of "bob" is to be seen in increasing numbers on Fifth Avenue daily. The lovely New York girl, illustrating the new style, is Myrtle Miller of 325 West 99th Street.

She says, "I am certainly delighted that my hair has gotten so much fluffier and more vigorous. And I am not troubled with dandruff any more. At the time I started letting my hair grow, I began caring for it, the way which is all the rage among New York girls, now, and I attribute its improvement to this method. All I do is put a little Danderine on my brush each time I dress my hair. It makes my hair easy to arrange and holds it in place. It soothes my scalp and keeps it and my hair so clean, I don't need to shampoo more than twice a month, now. All my friends admire the way Danderine makes my hair look so bright and sparkling."

Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the gleam and lustre of your hair than shampoos or brilliantine. It removes all dust, grime and oily film from the hair—tones and refreshes the scalp, gets rid of dandruff. All drug stores have the big 35c bottles. A delicately fragrant necessity for the well-groomed girl! (Adv.)

Oldest Male Choir In Canada Giving Concert Next Week

Arion Club Will Open Thirty-seventh Season; Kolja Levenne, Cellist, to Assist

The Arion Club will open its thirty-seventh season at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Thursday, November 15. Kolja Levenne, cellist, and John Hopper, pianist, will assist the club on that occasion.

The London Times says: "Kolja Levenne is a performer of very pronounced ability. He has a well-finished technique and under his vigorous bowing his tone always remains clear and musical."

The Westminster Gazette says: "Kolja Levenne is a cellist of decided gifts, warm and beautiful he adds a fine execution and obvious musicianship in the highest sense."

Criticism from such reliable publications shows that Kolja Levenne is a cellist of outstanding ability, and the club considers itself fortunate in securing him for its opening concert. The concert, and a large audience, consisting of associate members and their friends, is already assured. Fifty students from St. Margaret's School will attend in a body.

OLDEST IN CANADA
For the information of newcomers to Victoria it may be stated that the Arion Club is the oldest male voice club in Canada. The singing members, who number sixty, are carefully examined before admission into the club. The associate members are those who subscribe for two or more tickets for the season and who constitute the audience. Vacancies occur annually in the ranks of the associate members owing to removals from the city and other causes. Those wishing to become associates can do so by applying to the club or at the office of the club, 112 Pemberton Building.

NANCY PAGE

WEDDING DRESS AND VEIL IS SOFT AND FEMINE
By Florence La Ganks

"Brides of to-day have a distinct advantage over those of us who were married two or three years ago. Then we wore straight chemise dresses that not even a veil could transform into one's ideal of a bridal dress. Of course, I refused and wore a period gown, but not every bride had the courage or the family pocketbook which would allow it. But today I went to Martha's wedding and she was lovely. She had on—

At this point Peter buried himself in his paper. He had been listening to Nancy's telephone conversation with Lois and been enjoying it, but when Nancy started on a description of the wedding dress he lost all interest. Not so Lois. Nancy could almost hear her eager attention at the other end of the wire.

This particular wedding was one of the smartest. For the year, "She wore" were few. Naturally Nancy Lee Page with her family background was among those present. "She wore" it wasn't ivory nor cream nor grey. It was almost oyster and yet not quite. I say it was 'dirty white' you may get the idea. It was trimmed with cream lace, had the molded hip line, a long train scalloped and was ankle length in front. Her veil was worn off the face and held in place over each ear with orange blossoms. Martha was a Madonna face anyway, and she was a picture of loveliness."

King's Daughters' Bazaar—To provide funds for their relief work for the winter, the ministering circle of King's Daughters will hold a bazaar and sale of work at the rest room, Hubbert Building, Port Street, on Friday afternoon. Tea will be served by the members.

Alexandra Club Meeting—The annual meeting of the Alexandra Club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the Pemberton Building, Port Street, when the officers' reports will be read and the election of officers for the coming year will take place.

Miss Bowron Honored—The Women's Conservative Association held a short business meeting last night when only Mrs. Service presided. Mrs. Gilles presided. A delightful little incident took place just at the adjournment when Mrs. A. P. Briggs, with a few happy remarks presented a small gift to Miss L. Bowron, retiring president, as a token of "love and esteem." On behalf of the association, Miss Bowron made a charming speech in acknowledgment.

LAKE HILL WOMEN BUSY

The monthly meeting of Lake Hill Women's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Institute room, with sixteen members and three visitors present.

Members of the various committees included two wool bees, three successful card parties and a fancy dress party and shiner for the Mill Bay Solarium. It was decided that the $24 donated at the shower, be given to the Solarium committee to purchase trays for the children's use. CANADIENS WILL BE INTACT FOR SEASON OPENING

Martin Burke and Albert Leduc Fighting For Gardiner's Position

Morenz, Joliat and Gagne the "Flying Frenchmen" Will Seek Goals

Montreal, Nov. 7.—With the exception of Herb Gardiner, defence player, who has been promoted to the management of the Chicago Black Hawks in the United States group, the Flying Frenchmen of Montreal, Les Canadiens, will be intact when they open the National Hockey League against the Montreal Maroons on November 15.

Although the Canadiens led the Canadian group throughout the 1922-23 season they fell victims to their intra-city rivals, the Maroons, in the group play-offs, after the latter had trimmed the Ottawa Senators in the group semi-finals.

A CLEAN PLAYER
Gardiner, who came to the Canadiens from the Calgary Tigers three years ago when the Western Canada League was disbanded, was a tower of strength to Canadiens' defence. He was one of the cleanest players in the league and rarely weakened his team by penalties.

Fighting for his position alongside Sylvio Mantha are Martin Burke and Albert Leduc. Burke was loaned to the Pittsburgh Pirates last season, but was the property of the Canadiens. Leduc has been substituting on the back line for several seasons.

MUSKETEERS READY
George Hainsworth again will guard the nets and the "three musketeers," whose speed, scoring ability and stick-handling earned the title of "Flying Frenchmen" will make up the forward line. They are Howie Morenz, centre;

Pete Lepine and Leonard Gaudreault, backbones of the Canadiens' reserve last year, again are available for duty. Mondou, bought from Providence, R. I., and Gerald Carson, defence man from the Philadelphia team of the Canadian-American League, also are on the roster. It is expected that LaRoche and George Patterson, both right wing substitutes, will be sent to a minor league club.

TWO ARE MISSING
"Gizzy" Hart and Charley Langlois, sub. players last year, will be missing from the Canadian bench this season. Hart has been sold to Providence and Langlois has been returned to Pittsburgh.

The club again will be under the management of Cecil Hart.

ALL PROPERTY FOR SALE MUST BE ADVERTISED

Nanaimo Council Finds That Advertising Brings Better Prices

Nanaimo, Nov. 7.—At the regular meeting of the City Council held last night an offer was received for a lot, forfeited for taxes, of a nominal sum.

After the offer was read Alderman Smith, chairman of the Parks and Properties Committee, moved the offer be accepted. The property in question is lot 15, block 2, situated on the subdivision of Chinatown.

It developed later in the evening that there were four lots for sale for which offers have been received in open council last evening. Before the motion was seconded Alderman Cavalsky, chairman, finance committee, asked if this lot or the others involved had been advertised for sale. A taxpayer in the rear of the hall stated that he had personally paid the sum of $150 more to the city through advertising, than they would have received otherwise. In other words he had seen lots advertised and had given a better offer than the one received.

Alderman Smith moved that the lot be advertised for sale. His motion carried.

AUTO PARK CARETAKER

Alderman Hart asked if it were right to keep an auto park employee busy all the year round at $60 per month.

He said the present caretaker was an excellent man, but he did not think he should be there after the tourist season was over. The only work he could do was to clear land for more cabins and he, the speaker, could not see the need for more cabins when there was good hotel accommodation in the city. He suggested that instead of releasing the caretaker, he be sent to No. 1 dam to help the water-works man clean out the rushes and get things in good shape for Spring.

Alderman Cavalsky, chairman of finance committee, stated that this year there had been expended on the parks the sum of $1,350, with a return of $460. If the same expenditure kept up there would be a further cost of $270 for wages this year. He did not favor transferring the caretaker.

A petition was received from residents of Fairview, asking that a light be installed at the corner of Manning and Second Streets. The request was referred to Lighting Committee for report.

Rev. F. W. Anderson wrote extending an invitation to the mayor and members of the council to attend a special service in the First United Church on November 11, to celebrate the tenth anniversary of Armistice Day.

Space would be reserved for the council if they accepted, it was stated. On motion of Alderman Ironside, the council will attend in a body.

Fire losses in the city were small for October, according to Fire Chief Parkin's report, the total loss being $55.

No meeting will be held next Monday night owing to the holidays.

HARPER SPEAKS ON OBSERVATORY

Assistant-director Here Gives Interesting Address Before Nanaimo Canadian Club

Nanaimo, Nov. 6.—W. E. Harper, assistant director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Victoria, addressed the Nanaimo Canadian Club yesterday on the subject, "Observatory Work in Canada." He spoke of the great publicity Canada is receiving by reason of support she is giving to scientific research. Over 20,000 tourists visited the Observatory during the two months of July and August, also this year, and carried back to every quarter of the globe favorable impressions of Canada's progressiveness. The Victoria-Observatory is an off-shoot of the one at Ottawa, which was called into existence as a base for the astronomical surveys, necessary in the mountainous regions of the railway belt. The growth and expansion of the work at Ottawa was touched upon, mention being made of the study of earthquakes, the variation of the compass needle at 500 stations across Canada, with suggestions as to the practical use of the latter study in the future of aviation. Mention was also made of the solar work and how the volcanic, like eruptions on the sun's surface markedly affect our telegraph systems and caused the northern lights by the bombardment of the electrified particles from the sun on the gases of our upper atmosphere.

While some work was done on the higher stars at Ottawa, the need was felt for a large telescope of sufficient light-gathering power to investigate the small stars. The proposal was endorsed by several scientific bodies, and finally the Federal Government acceded to the request in 1913, ordering one 72 inches in diameter. Tests made the same year across Canada resulted in the present location near Victoria, being chosen by reason of the low daily range of temperature to avoid distortion of the mirror, and the crispness and steadiness of the star images under actual observing conditions. The 72-inch telescope was described, and one learned that though it weighs 45 tons, it, and the revolving dome weighing 135 tons, are quickly and easily moved in any position by electric power. The work is almost entirely photographic; plates being secured at night and measured under a microscope in the daytime. The analyzed light or spectrum of a star reveals by the number and character of its markings all our information as to the gases comprising its atmosphere, their density, the speed of the fainter stars. The drift of the solar system through space and the discovery of many close binary stars were by-products of this investigation. The speaker concluded by stating that the prosecution of pure science was not only for practical applications that would eventually ensure, but also for the cultural value as well. Only those nations are truly progressing which are paying some attention to research in pure science.

Insurance Rates Subject of Warm Debate By City

No Reduction Likely on Present Standard, City Is Told
By Insurance Underwriters; Provincial Inquiry Is Hinted at by Mayor Pendray; Fire Department Is Weakened, Retort Underwriters.

The city could look for no reduction in its fire insurance rates until the standard of fire protection had been brought back to the equivalent basis of the year 1917, was the clear-cut intimation given to city fire wardens by the officials of the B.C. Fire Underwriters Association at the conference on rates opened yesterday afternoon.

Mayor J. C. Pendray and Alderman E. S. Woodward expressed dissatisfaction with the existing cost of insurance, claiming that the city was entitled to a reduction on its present showing. The city might seek a Provincial inquiry into B.C. insurance affairs, hinted Mayor Pendray.

Other members of the fire wardens stated they were prepared to examine at greater length the technical report of the underwriters on the city's fire control system, to see what could be done to bring it into line with standard national requirements cited by the underwriters.

On behalf of the underwriters, John Noble, manager of the B.C. Association, stated that they were ready to co-operate in every way possible by advice and technical assistance, but could not deviate from a policy that was national and even universal in scope.

PLAIN SPEAKING

The meeting was productive of some plain speaking on both sides and resulted in a reference of the case to the City Council as a whole, without other action taken. Alderman J. L. Mara presided.

In opening the conference, Alderman J. L. Mara said that the citizens of Victoria felt they were entitled to a substantial reduction in fire insurance rates. Victoria had enjoyed very low losses in the last seventeen years, totalling $2,380,000, or at the rate of $113,000 a year since 1910. That was a very fine record indeed, he said.

In addition to that record, the city had in 1925 acquired the Esquimalt waterworks system, which gave a great advantage in the possession of two main and independent sources of water supply. It was doubtful if any other city in Canada could say the same, he believed. Victoria also was known as a fire moral hazard from a fire insurance viewpoint, stated Ald. Mara.

The claim of the city had been presented to the B.C. Fire Underwriters Association in the year by Mayor J. C. Pendray, and speaking for the city, he was glad to commend the attitude in which the case had been received. The underwriters had since made an exhaustive survey of Victoria at no little cost, and had been at some pains to inform themselves on the exact state of affairs here in regard to fire prevention. In so far as the present conference was concerned, concluded the chairman, he believed an amicable settlement would be reached if all entered the parley in a reasonable frame of mind.

EXPLAINS CITY CASE

The stand taken by the City Council, was explained by Mayor Pendray. There had been no reduction in the rates since 1922, while the average fire loss for seventeen years had been $113,000, and for the last five years of that time it had been about $40,000 a year. Against this, said Mr. Woodward, a sum in excess of $250,000 a year was collected in premiums.

to say nothing of the $150,000 spent by the city in the upkeep of its fire department.

There was, continued Mayor Pendray, a considerable discrepancy between the $400,000 a year which was the present cost of fire protection to the citizens, and the $40,000 a year handed back in actual losses paid. It was felt that with excellent roads, abundant water, and a high degree of efficiency in the fire department that a substantial cut was due to the citizens in the fire insurance rates.

It was admitted that the rates now being paid were the lowest in Canada, but at that, the thought persisted that Victorians were being asked to help pay for losses elsewhere in B.C., continued Mayor Pendray. There were points brought out by the report of the underwriters that the city might be able to adjust, but before such steps were taken, the city should know what would be the result in the rates in that event, he said.

It was a mystery to him how citizens were obliged to pay $400,000 to cover losses less than $100,000 annually, stated Alderman E. S. Woodward, chairman of the water committee.

UNDERWRITERS' REPLY

John Noble, manager of the B.C. Fire Underwriters Association, in rising to speak, congratulated the city on the friendly spirit in which the question had been approached. There were 156 board companies represented in the association, and these were business firms, there to make money, he said. Rates were being fixed on the basis of losses influenced by them to some extent.

In 1917, the B.C. Fire Underwriters Association had reported Victoria after an exhaustive study by its then engineers, in a report that had cost $11,000 to compile. In addition to that, the latest report, that of 1925, just completed, had cost $4,000, and had been prepared in like manner by the expert engineers of the association, continued Mr. Noble.

The first result of the recent report had been to show that from an insurable standpoint, Victoria had fallen back 432 points, from 1,008 points record against it in 1917, to a total of 1,440 points against the city in 1925. By following out the recommendations of the association, in so far as it was able, the city could reduce the marks against it, and win its way to a reduction. Even if it brought its fire control back to the standard of 1917, the city would only be entitled to the present rates, to which on the present standing it was not really entitled, he said.

STANDARD BASIS

Victoria was the first city in Canada to be graded under the National Board schedule, Mr. Noble said. He had been informed that the city was based on universal requirements in assessing insurable risks. That schedule was not a hazard affair, but a highly technical analysis of direct physical assets, topographical features, climate, and everything bearing on fire control in any locality.

It should be understood from the first that insurance of fire risk was not based on loss ratios alone, and that low losses could be turned overnight into very heavy losses, continued Mr. Noble. Every city had a conflagration hazard, wherein a conflagration overnight could wipe out all the profits of the insurance business for fifty years to come.

The conflagration hazard in Victoria was lower than in most cities, he admitted, but still it existed, and could not be wiped away.

The point had been made that Victoria secured a comparatively small cash return for the $400,000 invested in prevention, but at that point was of less bearing on the case than might at first be supposed. Life insurance was based on more or less exact tables, but no such basis could be found for fire insurance, which was uncertain in regard to losses, continued Mr. Noble.

The National Board was the only association which had attempted to fix a standard for the assessment of risks on a basis in direct bearing to each locality. This was a technical business, and in universal application, Victoria had a very good record for low losses, but not abnormally so. The losses over the last seventeen years had been 50 per cent of the premiums, he said.

REDUCTION MADE

In 1922, a 17 per cent reduction had been made, and the day that it was made, the city had been milled out, the Arcade Building burned down, with an enormous loss on contents in the high value district. At the present standing, Victoria had the lowest rates of any city of its size in Canada, with a key rate of 35 cents, compared to 45 cents at Vancouver, 50 cents at Calgary, and from 40 cents to 81 at Montreal. Yet Montreal had eliminated all single roofs, said Mr. Noble.

The underwriters had given the city every credit for its climate, topographical features, water supply, and in addition had made a ten per cent allowance for the low loss record. Now, a further reduction was asked in spite of the fact that the fire control system of the city was not at the same peak as it had been in 1917, and no provision had been made for the upkeep of equipment, and the fire department had insufficient personnel, compared even with the year 1917, and no provision had been made for the upkeep of equipment by replacement with new and improved machines.

THE YARDSTICK

"We are not assessing Victoria for losses sustained elsewhere. We are measuring each place in relation to what it has, and what it has not, is our yardstick. And we try to give 36 inches every time in that yardstick," continued Mr. Noble.

By studying the latest report, compiled by F. F. Dowling, the association's chief engineer, the city would find how it could earn credit points which might lead to a slight reduction, but this reduction could in no sense approximate the 20 per cent cut asked by the city. Credit points would be allowed for following the suggestions of the engineers in attaining first-class status in regard to waterworks, fire department operation, alarm system, building laws, based on the universal schedule, he said.

At present Victoria was enjoying the lowest rates in Canada through a second class city from a fire control standpoint. If it followed out every requirement of the association, it would become a first class city, and would be practically by itself on the continent. There were no first class fire prevention cities in Canada, and only one or two in the United States, commented Mr. Noble.

The underwriters were not asking Victoria to expend a cent. But if it did carry out some of the requirements of the board, sufficient to bring down the points against it in the recent survey, some reduction might be recommended. He had been informed that the cost of carrying out the full programme would be $600,000, and realized this was not to be expected.

COST OF REMEDY

Many of the recommendations could be carried out at little cost. Others, dealing with increased staffs, and replacement of water pipes and mains, would run into large sums. But sufficient could be done to bring the city back to the standard of 1917, he suggested, offering the services of Mr. Dowling and other officials of the association in advising on this programme.

In conclusion, said Mr. Noble, there would be no reduction of any kind unless the city brought its fire prevention system back to the standard of 1917. Was that clear? he asked.

"It is clear, but not satisfactory," replied Alderman Woodward, "for there would be still a margin of $300,000 a year against us."

"I have tried to make it clear that we do not predicate our rates on the losses alone. Suppose you have a million-dollar fire to-night?" began Mr. Noble.

"Suppose we don't," interpolated Mr. Woodward.

CONFLAGRATION HAZARD

"We are in business to make money if we are to stay in business we must regard the conflagration hazard," continued Mr. Noble. "We are selling a commodity, and we cannot base the price on losses, which can change overnight."

The suggestion has also been made that Victoria is paying for other cities. We do not keep a record of the premiums of any one city, for that would involve too much work, and expense, and would send the rates up, but I can assure you that the rates here, and in every locality, are based on the same standard, and that that standard is an universal one, fair to all.

"Vancouver Island is in one district, and the mainland in another. San Francisco, before the great fire, was one of the best insurance cities on the continent, yet enough was lost in the conflagration to wipe out all the profits of doing business there for a long time to come."

"We must regard the possibility of losses running into $50,000,000 or more, and conflagration hazards cannot be disregarded. If your argument is that you received back only $17,000 last year for the $400,000 paid out, then we have no answer to that, for we have no argument on that basis," concluded Mr. Noble.

RED HERRINGS

The underwriters had attempted to draw a red herring across the trail by means of a counterclaim, and this was a well-known method of attack in debate, commented Alderman Woodward. The point still remained, he averred, that $300,000 of a yearly balance rested against the city and the citizens, and this came from the too-great cost of doing business as it was done to-day, he said.

Instanting this point, Mr. Woodward stated that upwards of 150 agents were to share in the elevator business, meaning an overhead that was largely responsible for the cost of doing that business. The city's duty, he believed, was to find another means of doing business, through a single agency, if that could be achieved.

As he saw it the city would have to be in a position to build unburnable buildings, to flood the entire city in a second, and to make 100 per cent prevention possible, before it could expect even a two-to-one ratio for its premium money, instead of the four-to-one ratio now pertaining, said Alderman Woodward. All this showed, he said, that fire insurance business was standing on the wrong basis and should be changed.

There was much truth in what Alderman Woodward had stated, said Mayor Pendray. The citizens were paying an enormous total in premiums. The yardstick of the underwriters must be wrong if losses had no bearing on rates. If the losses were not considered, what was the advantage of having or striving for low losses, he asked.

PAYING FOR LOSSES

Why should the citizens of Victoria be called on to help pay for the fire losses of Chemainus, Ladysmith, Nanaimo and other island centres in the same area? continued the Mayor, Calgary, with its months' winter and all the risk that implied, only differed by fifteen cents in the key rate from Victoria, and Victoria had the lowest loss record of any city in Canada of comparative size.

There were many factors entering into key rates, and the loss record was only one of these, submitted Mr. Noble. With all Victoria's efficiency in fire fighting, the Liquor Board Building had sustained a fire that nothing could handle, he added. Vancouver had been assessed a surcharge on its key rates, through lack of equipment, he said, instancing the Royal Alexandra fire, an apartment-house where three lives had been lost. Vancouver had reduced the surcharge by half, but it had cost $75,000 for new equipment this year to do it.

The requirements of the board were definite and well known. They had now been indicated to the city by way of a special report. The city could do as it liked about it; but if a reduction was sought, it would have to be placed back on the 1917 basis at least, before any reduction would be made, or considered, stated Mr. Noble.

The city was entitled to a reduction on its present showing, stated the Mayor and Alderman Woodward together.

INQUIRY MOOTED

If that reduction was not granted the city would consider calling in independent advice, and might even apply to the Provincial Government for a commission to investigate the whole situation in British Columbia, stated Mayor Pendray.

An inquiry would be welcomed, stated Mr. Noble. Many other commissions and inquiries had been faced in Canada, and the result of all of them had been to confirm the National Board schedule, and its application to the various Canadian provinces. The underwriters had nothing to hide, were out to give fair dealing, and welcomed understanding co-operation, concluded Mr. Noble.

After desultory discussion the meeting adjourned. The only action taken was to refer the question back to the City Council, together with a final offer of technical assistance from the underwriters to help the city establish a satisfactory standard on their stated requirements here.

OFFICIALS THANKED

Alderman Mara, chairman of the meeting, thanked the underwriters for their attendance, and assured them that the city had no wish other than to approach the whole question in a reasonable attitude.

Attending the conference for the city were Mayor J. C. Pendray, Alderman J. L. Mara, E. S. Woodward, P. R. Brown, B. A. C. Dewar, James Adam, with F. M. Preston, Chief V. W. Stewart and John Baxter.

For the insurance officials were John Noble, F. F. Dowling, D. A. S. McGregor, F. F. Pat, Russell Ker. Further conferences with the council as a whole are forecast as a result of the first discussion, it was intimated.

Brownlee of Alberta and
Tolmie of B.C. Address
Canadian Club

Vancouver, Nov. 7.—The Vancouver Canadian Club, at its annual meeting last night, heard two Premier Brownlee of Alberta, and Hon. S. F. Tolmie, of British Columbia. Dealing almost entirely with the agriculturalists of Alberta, their struggles and aspirations, Premier Brownlee declared the fortunes of British Columbia and Alberta were inseparably entwined. The speaker also showed himself greatly interested in the question of an outlet on the Pacific for the Peace River country, declaring the time nearer at hand than most persons thought when an outlet for the Peace River district would be one of the outstanding questions of Western Canadian life.

TO BUILD FOR FUTURE

"That outlet should be built," Premier Brownlee said, "not to serve the urgent needs of to-day, but to serve the needs of the future. There must be a careful checking of freight rates. So far wheat is the great product moving westward, but what do we know about the livestock markets in the Orient and freight rates on the Pacific? There must be a co-operative assembly around the table of the provinces and the Federal authorities, and an intensive study of trade questions and transportation on the Pacific."

Mr. Brownlee quoted figures to show the development of Alberta and its

KEEP MONEY IN CANADA

Premier Tolmie expressed the appreciation of the people of British Columbia for the goodwill of Alberta and Premier Brownlee's address. He urged British Columbians to spend their money where they could in Alberta as

A special shock absorbing device, into which the left front spring is mounted at the rear, eliminates completely all steering jars—cancels out all steering whip and "shimmy." So safe and easy is the new Packard steering that the car can be guided over the most uneven roads with only the tips of two fingers touching the wheel.

We want you to drive one of the beautiful and distinctive new Packard models—experience for yourself its almost magical riding comfort. At least come in and see our exhibitions of charts explaining briefly and clearly why the new Shock Absorbing System makes the Packard not only the easiest riding car in the world, but the safest.

Should you wish to purchase, we will appraise your present car fairly, and apply its value on the price of the new model you choose. The average used car makes or exceeds the down payment. If you prefer to buy from income, as so many do, the remainder can be arranged in convenient monthly payments.

THE easiest riding car in the world—literal truth—we cannot emphasize that important statement too strongly.

Your first ride in the new Packard—be it the Standard, Custom or DeLuxe Eight—will convince you that the exclusive Packard Shock Absorbing System provides riding comfort and driving ease never before achieved.

HOW THEY LINE UP

The veterans will be lined up facing the Cenotaph, on Belleville Street, on the road leading up to the Parliament Buildings. The lawn immediately in rear of the Cenotaph will be reserved for ex-nursing sisters, amputees, widows and near relatives of deceased soldiers. Those who will place wreaths are requested to wait on the sidewalk on Belleville Street beside the Cenotaph until the Lieutenant-Governor's wreath has been placed. 11

IN ORDER TO ASSIST IN THE DUE

THE ARMISTICE PERIOD COMMITTEE

has arranged for buglers to sound the Post and Reveille at the following places: the corner of Douglas and Port Streets, of Quadra Street and Pandora Avenue, of Yates and Blanshard Streets, and at Christ Church Cathedral. This will assist a good number of churches in the ceremony of silence and will add to the impressiveness of the silence throughout the city. The buglers will be provided by the permanent forces, the 16th Canadian Scottish and the Eagles' Band. 11

WEATHER NO BAR

The memorial service will be held at the Cenotaph irrespective of weather conditions. If the weather is inclement the service will be made very brief. Most of the churches are holding commemorative services at the same time, so those who may be unable to attend at the Cenotaph will be able to celebrate the armistice with due solemnity. 11

Many stations broadcast independently the results of individual state returns, while the NBC and ABC networks gave the latest reports from the great news-shoveling agencies of the nation on the Presidential contest.

BRITAIN WANTS TO KNOW MORE ABOUT CANADA

Business Representatives Are Coming Out to Get Personal Touch, Says Wm. Mackay

Trade Consciousness Extends Now to Far-flung Corners of Empire

Great Britain is anxious to see for herself what the Dominions have to offer and it is primarily for that reason that the British business world, represented by notable groups and prominent individuals, has been invading this country, according to William Mackay, of Mackay Brothers and Company, passenger, tourist and shipping agents, of Edinburgh, Dundee and Aberdeen, who is at the Empress Hotel to-day.

The business and industrial interests of Great Britain are now displaying the keenest interest in developing business in Canada and are sending out special representatives to get first-hand information on conditions and prospects," said Mr. Mackay in an interview with The Times. "It is a good sign."

TRADE CONSCIOUSNESS

The leaders of big business in Britain have developed a "trade consciousness" that extends to the farthest-flung outposts of Empire.

Mr. Mackay pointed out that, unfortunately, there had existed in the past too much ignorance concerning the Dominions.

Enlightenment had come, however, and the Motherland was now seeking personal contact with the pulse overseas, he emphasized.

HERE FOR INFORMATION

"I am here to get information and my trip might be classed as an educational tour," said Mr. Mackay. "Our firm absolutely declines to give any information about Canada unless it is accurate and backed up by the Dominion Government."

"We have to be accurate in dispensing information if the future citizens of this country are to remain satisfied and contented in his adopted land."

More settlers are coming to Canada now from Scotland, according to Mr. Mackay. He says the emigration movement to Australia is practically at a standstill. The same applies to New Zealand. South Africa attracts comparatively few. The assisted passages under the Empire Settlement Scheme naturally draws a greater percentage of settlers to Canada because of the short water route and cheaper fares. The Federal Government plan in assisting settlers on the land is also proving attractive.

During his trip across the country, Mr. Mackay visited Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Calgary and he states that he had the satisfaction of meeting a number of British settlers who were now contentedly settled on the land. He made reference to the difficulties experienced with the miner-harvesters at Winnipeg and explained that it was only the misdeeds who caused the trouble.

Onwego Concert To-morrow Night At United Church

An evening concert, the ninth under the auspices of the "Onwego" Young Men's Bible Class, of First United Church, will be rendered in the Church Hall, Quadra and Balmoral Streets to-morrow evening at 8.15 o'clock.

The Onwego Bible Class, for the last ten years has sought to bring in the Christmas cheer into Victoria homes by means of well-filled Christmas hamper. In this effort the proceeds of these concerts have proved to be large factors.

This year's programme is of exceptional merit, including several gold medalists, among whom are Mrs. Allan Millhouse, contralto, until recently prominent in musical circles in the House of Lords this afternoon; Lettbridge; Miss Dorothy Morton, pianist; Miss B. Bale, elocutionist; Miss Edith Howell, soprano; Llewellyn Jones, tenor; Frank Smedley, basso; and Francis Gratian, violinist. The Misses Eleanor Barfoot and Dorothy Morton will act as accompanists.

Five Defendants In Vancouver Case

Vancouver, Nov. 7.—Hearing of the conspiracy charges against S. Downham, W. Newman, R. R. Pearce, A. O. Hodgson and E. S. Sandford in the case of the Pacific Auto Top Company was commenced before Magistrate Shaw here to-day.

The wording of the information, sworn to by R. B. Noske, charges the defendants with conspiring together to defraud the public by fraudulent means, the chief witness at the opening being the informant.

Before evidence was taken it was stated by defence counsel that the only allegation in the charge against Mr. Noske was that he had been solicited for the company at one time.

Noske swore to investing $850 in the company, and being told he would be taught the trade and given a salary of $20 a week.

After being there some time, he said, he became dissatisfied with the manner in which the company was run. In direct evidence Noske stated he took steps to bring charges against the defendants after he was $95 short in his wages, later admitting in cross-examination that he had made an affidavit to the effect that the company owed him $110.

The case is proceeding.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR POPPY DAY

Biggest Income Yet From Sale of Poppies Expected For Great Work

The annual Poppy Day ceremonies will be observed in this city on Saturday, when taggers will distribute emblems commemorating Armistice Day to all citizens of Victoria.

In view of the increasing number of people who have volunteered to help in selling the poppies and the great number of sales which have already been made, this year's drive promises to bring much more money into the coffers of the Armistice Period Committee to be distributed among the disabled veterans of the Great War than ever before.

Throughout Canada more than 500 branches of the B.E.S.L., branches of the B.E.S.L., participate in the distribution of the emblems, and in all the important towns memorial services will be held and war memorials will be adorned with suitable wreaths.

In the past, Poppy Day campaigns have realized approximately $1,000,000 throughout the Dominion and it is hoped that this year's collections will exceed that amount.

The committee would appreciate more assistance from taggers and any who wish to aid in this work are to enter the House of Lords this afternoon.

The real service which the Legion renders is in the putting of their feet when they are nearly beaten, finding them employment, saving their respect, giving them advice and fighting their claims for them, caring for the tubercular and the nervous wrecks, helping to educate the orphan children, looking after widows' pensions, keeping homes together and hearts from utterly sinking.

The sale of the poppy emblem assists in providing the means for conducting this work, and the Legion asks for loyal and generous support for the poppy fund.

London, Nov. 7. (Canadian Press Cable).—Lord Thompson, Labor peer, entered the House of Lords this afternoon, moved a resolution declaring the negotiations disclosed in the white paper on the Anglo-French naval armamentament proposals "constitute a grave setback to the cause of disarmament."

He declared the state of peace existing to-day was not the result of statesmanship, but of "exhaustion."

NAVY DISCUSSION IS CRITICIZED

Europe remained an armed camp, he said. He expressed the opinion the Anglo-French compromise amounted to a deal in which Britain gave much and lost little in return.

Lord Thompson declared the effect of the agreement if it were adopted would be an increase in armaments all around, with the richest nations setting the pace.

Man Falls on Saw And Is Killed

New Westminster, Nov. 7.—Henry C. Robertson, sixty-six, of Port Kells, was fatally injured when he fell on a saw at the Youban Sawmill Company's plant at Cowichan. He went to Cowichan from Port Kells last May. He was a native of Denmark. A widow and three daughters survive him.

Motor Truck And Tobacco Are Stolen

Montreal, Nov. 7.—A motor truck and its contents, valued at $4,000, the property of a wholesale tobacco firm, was stolen here yesterday while the driver was delivering a parcel to a customer. The chauffeur gave chase as two men drove his automobile away and one of the robbers fired two shots at him.

STOCK MARKET FINANCIAL NEWS GRAIN MARKETS

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)

Winnipeg, Nov. 7.—Wheat—Wheat opened unchanged this morning, but liquidation of long wheat and reinstatement of short lines appeared to be the order of the day, and prices were carried down to about 1½ under last night's close, getting into the daily bids, the buying against which checked further declines, but the market was only able to hold steady around bottom levels. Chicago was even weaker than Winnipeg, declining over two cents. Trade was largely local, but there was a little back spreading between here and Chicago which was selling Winnipeg futures against purchases at Chicago.

Following the fairly large export business of yesterday when fully 1,000,000 bushels of wheat was sold out of this market, there was nothing doing to-day. However, holders were not pressing cash wheat and spreads were practically unchanged all day, with November wheat 1½ better. Wheat deliveries into the clearing house to-day were 456,000 bushels. Weather in the Argentine reported as more settled.

Coarse grains—These markets were generally quiet and outside of a little domestic business in oats and barley there was very little doing. Markets were slightly easier in sympathy with the weakness in wheat, but there was not much selling pressure.

Flax—Steady market, closing about unchanged. Trade was very light and nothing of feature going on.

A Story of the Mystic East

The Riddle of Siwa

By DIXON KAYE

Author of "Dr. Burney's Greatest Case."

Sitting in Sir Bertram's old study in the Citadel, Seymour was at his wits' end; this had come as a surprise, he never expected it, though he knew now that he should have done. He was glad that Sir Bertram had left the study before the Prince made his disclosure. Eva, who had remained with them, was in tears, and the Prince sat with his head in his hands.

Presently he looked up. "A liner sails for England from Alexandria to-morrow evening," he said. "I shall go by it."

"You have very little time to prepare," suggested Seymour. "Why not go by the next boat, something might turn up in the meantime. Hassan's appeal cannot have been heard yet, and you are sure to see the result in the newspapers. Even if it fails, you would still have time to reach England to save him."

"No, three weeks have passed," was the Prince's answer. "I shall go to-morrow night."

There seemed no prospect of breaking his resolution, so when he proposed that he should go back to Shepherd's and spend his last evening with his wife, Seymour gladly offered to accompany him.

It was a sad evening for both of them. Ahmed had not yet told his wife, and she and the children came running out joyously to meet him.

Seymour left him talking to his valet and ordering him to pack up and be ready to leave with him for Alexandria in the morning.

"Of course, I shall come with you to Alexandria," said Seymour, "and see you on to the liner."

"I should be very grateful if you would," replied the Prince, "though I don't like taking you from Miss Manders."

"I am sure that Miss Manders would be the first to advise me to go with you," was the answer.

"On consideration," said the Prince, as Seymour was going down the well-known steps at Shepherd's, "I shall not tell my wife yet. The pain would be too great for both of us; but, if necessary, I will get you to break it to her."

And so it was left at that, and Seymour was to be at Shepherd's Hotel early, to accompany him to Alexandria. The Princess was left in entire ignorance of the real purport of her husband's journey. Seymour feared, and with good reason, that the second shock, such as this would be, might seriously affect her health.

He went back to Eva with a heavy heart.

Seymour was early at Shepherd's Hotel the next morning, and almost the first person he ran into on the steps was the "wild bore."

"This is a queer story about Prince Ahmed being sentenced to death," he remarked.

"Indeed?" commented Seymour. "It seems funny," continued the "Bore," "that you should have been in England at the time and not have heard of it."

He looked at Seymour with some suspicion. "Who said I had not heard of it?" Seymour replied impatiently.

"Ah! Now we are coming to it," exclaimed the "Bore" joyously. "I thought you knew all about it, and that your journey to England was not unconnected with it. Now, you just come and sit down at this table on the terrace. We will have a drink, and you shall tell me all about it."

"You must excuse me, Wild," Seymour replied hastily. "But I have some very important business to attend to just now."

"About Prince Ahmed?" queried the "Bore."

Seymour left him without another word, with his eyes wide open and a newspaper in his hand. Seymour passed up the staircase to the room of his friend.

"Ah!" you are in good time as usual, Barham," the Prince said cheerfully, as he entered; "the car has only just arrived."

It was very evident from the bright faces of the Princess and her children, that no disclosure of the Prince's purpose had been made.

Seymour never felt so wretched in his life, as when he saw Ahmed take leave of his wife and children with simulated cheerfulness. It was evident that his tears were only held back with an effort.

It was soon all over, and the two friends descended the staircase to the waiting car.

"Of course," said the Prince, "we are going to the railway station to catch the Alexandria train. My baggage has all been sent on, and I have told the Princess that we shall be absent for two days."

The journey to Alexandria was of the usual kind in an Egyptian train; plenty of flies and dust. Neither of them attempted to keep up a conversation; indeed, poor Ahmed sat for the greater part of the journey with his face buried in his hands.

However, "Alex" was reached at last.

and the Prince's baggage confided to the Savoy Hotel porter.

"The ship is not yet in. Effendi," this man informed them. "It is over-due, but has been sighted and will be in perhaps in an hour."

They decided to have some slight meal at the hotel, and then go straight down to the liner and select the Prince's cabin.

This they did, and stood waiting on the landing-stage for the arrival of the ship, which was already in sight, close in.

The two walked about, talking little, and watching the crowd of passengers looking over the rails at a country which many of them had never before seen.

Presently the liner came alongside and was made fast, the passengers from England began the dribble down the gangways. At last they had all come down, and the Prince prepared to walk up the gangway and select his stateroom, if he could get one.

He had got about halfway when a man wearing a red turban rushed on deck and began to descend the same gangway the Prince was using. They met in the middle, and the Prince started as if he had been shot; astounded, he dropped the stick he was carrying into the water. He stood with his hands grasping the rails of the gangway, his eyes fixed on the newcomer in amazement.

Seymour, filled with astonishment, ascended the gangway and stood looking at the man with the red turban, over the Prince's shoulder.

"As I am a living man," he cried, "it is Dr. Hassan!"

Dr. Hassan saw, too, the sensation he had created, and was fearful of the Prince or Seymour making some incriminating admission before the crowd already beginning to assemble on the landing stage.

"I have much to tell you," Hassan began, "which cannot be told here. Let us go down to the same hotel and engage a private room for our talk."

He spoke in English, which he considered it safer to use in the Arab crowd.

"Let us go back to the Savoy, Prince," Seymour suggested, calling a taxi; it was evident that the Prince was in a semi-collapsed condition.

Having ordered a porter to take the Prince's baggage back to the hotel, Seymour got into the taxi and drove off to the Savoy. There they at once engaged a private room and Seymour ordered a liqueur glass of fine champagne for the three.

Revived by this the three took their seats at the table. Hassan having carefully examined the door and windows to see that there were no eavesdroppers, he began to speak.

"When I left your Highness and Mr. Barham in Newgate," he began, "my identity with you, Highness, was a secret. At a moment without a doubt for a few days I remained undiscovered. It was fortunate, as I gave time for you to escape."

"The whole time," he said, "I said nothing the whole time; glasses were 'washed' at me from all over the court, but no one seemed to guess who I was, except a large egg which I was told should go into the witness box and give evidence on my own behalf. I declined. 'But you have given a proof,' he urged, 'upon which I must be examined on your own behalf, and it is most important that you should considerately affect the decision of the jury.' I have changed my mind; 'I was my own reply. 'I do not intend to go into the witness box. The counsel ceased to worry me after that, but appeared hopeless."

The judge's summing up was certainly not in my favor, and as I expected, the verdict of the jury was 'guilty.' Then the judge assumed the black cap, and sentenced me to death. It is not at all a pleasant thing, I can assure you, to see a judge with the black cap on sentencing you to be hanged, although in my case I was pretty sure it would not be carried out. I was taken back to the cells a condemned murderer sentenced to death, supported by two wardens."

"From that time forward I was not left alone for a moment; the contents of my pockets were taken from me, and I was watched unceasingly through a hole in the door of the cell to see that I did not commit suicide. But they need not have troubled themselves, for I had no such idea."

MASSACHUSETTS DEATH

Malden, Mass., Nov. 7.—Judge Thomas P. Riley of this city, a widely-known Democratic leader of this state, died suddenly in a Cleveland, Ohio, hospital yesterday.

Green stuff should only be given once a week, and the fattening process should go on for three weeks, when the birds should show a substantial gain in weight, he said. The speaker advised against the usual process of starving the birds for twenty-four hours before killing, stating that his livestock resulted in their losing from eight to twelve ounces in weight. Another essential for success was the painting of the crates with coal oil or some other disinfectant in order to check pests.

FARMERS' CONFERENCE

The chairman announced that the conference of the Vancouver Island Farmers' Institutes would be held in Victoria on November 23, when the question of the quickest and cheapest means of making logged-off lands available for farming will be discussed. The Oriental question and the desirability of supplying medical services to settlers will also be brought forward for discussion.

It was moved and seconded that the delegates to the conference be the seven directors of the F.I. and J. S. Yates.

The winner of the garden competition was A. G. Devenon, who was presented, amid applause, with the silver challenge cup by J. S. Yates, who complimented him on his enterprise and success. Professor Wright, who judged the gardens, reported that they were better than ever before, but regretted there were not more entries.

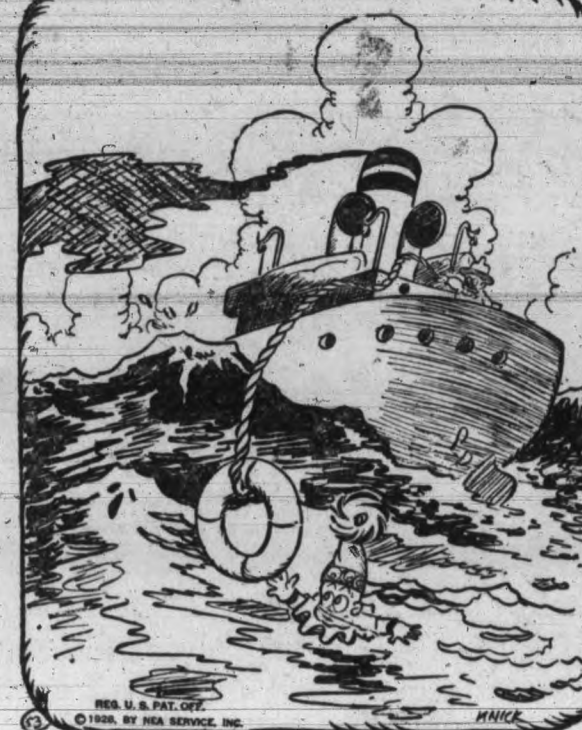

Miss Wilcox of Langford won the silver cup, presented by the Farmers' Institute for the best goat in the show.

OTHER PRIZES

Mr. Hebdon had won the silverware presented by Mr. Wilkerson for the best bird in the show with a white Wyandotte cock, and J. B. Edwards won the medal given for the highest number of points with his livestock exhibit. The prize money won at the Luxton fair was then distributed to all these exhibitors present. The secretary reported that the Government grant had been received a few days ago and that the Fall fair had been a success financially, showing a cash balance and a considerable amount of stock, consisting of chicken coops, rabbit hutches and a dancing floor, all of which would be available for future use.

THE PRINCE'S STORY

STORY BY HAI COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

My, what a waiter Clowdy made. Right by the captain's side he stayed, all ready to run back and forth and bring out food galore. The captain had an appetite that seemed to Clowdy near a fright. But, after a while the captain said, "I can't eat any more."

"Please, clear the table nice and clean, and make it quite a tidy scene. And then go to the kitchen where there's other work to do. I'll let you wash the dishes there, and, seems to me, it's only fair to call the other times. They will soon be helping you."

The whole bunch to the kitchen went and 'bout a half an hour was spent in fixing things up proper, so the captain worked out. "It must be time to go to bed. The captain ought to let us, since we've done our work so slick."

But that's where they were badly fooled. The captain very shortly ruled that they must keep on working till the moon rose in the sky. Then he explained, "I've always found that hard work makes you sleep a lot sounder. I've let you do for me before you close an eye."

"Down underneath the deck we'll go. I've something there I want to show. Just trail along behind me. It won't take you very long. Soon Scotty said, 'Well, bless my soul! I guess that we're to shovel coal.' 'You bet you are,' the captain cried. 'You all look pretty tired.'"

The work was hard as it could be, but they all worked on merrily until their legs and arms grew tired, and they bravely said, "What work we've done, we've done up right. Please let us turn in for to-night." "All right," replied the captain. "You can all run off to bed."

use. The membership of the F.I. was the highest for years, he said. The chairman paid tribute to the large number of willing helpers who had contributed so much to the success of the fair by the hard work they had done in preparing the hall and the grounds. He invited all present to the social meeting at Luxton Hall on November 20, when it was expected that a large number of people would be present from Saanich.

SHEEP CLUB

An announcement was also made that the Department of Agriculture is planning to help the sheep industry by organizing sheep clubs. Four members are necessary in order to form a club, and if four or more applications are received grade ewes already bred will be supplied. The number of ewes will probably be ten to each member, and the payments will be spread over three years and can be made in lamb, though the owners will be required to keep some of the ewe lambs each year in order to build up a flock.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Terry for his instructive address was proposed by Mr. Little and endorsed in the usual manner. Refreshments were served by Mrs. H. C. Heigenson, Mrs. A. G. Devenon, Mrs. W. L. Griffiths and Mrs. A. Georgeon, assisted by J. M. Mills and A. Arden.

Inquest Follows Death in Ontario

North Bay, Ont., Nov. 7.—An inquest will be held on the death of George Ferguson, fatally burned in a successful effort to rescue three children from his burning home. Inspector W. E. Moore of the Cobalt office of the provincial police has announced. The date of the hearing will be fixed when the children have sufficiently recovered to give evidence.

Inspector Moore stated the police had obtained a statement from Ferguson a few hours before he died. Provincial police are known to be investigating certain phases of the fire but refused to comment at this time.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

One Mother says: My little daughter's dresser drawers used to be one of the most annoying things in my life, for they were always topsy turvey, no matter how often I straightened them up for her. Finally I told her I would paint the insides a pretty color, of her own choosing. If she thought she could keep them in order. So at first I painted just one, a soft shade of blue and she was so delighted with it that she kept it in perfect order and now her dresser drawers are a delight to the eye. She has added bags of a delicate scented sachet and is very proud of keeping her things tidy.

NO JAIL-TO-JAIL PRISONERS' MOVES

Vancouver, Nov. 7.—Followed for years by successive Attorneys-General of the Province, the practice of transferring prisoners who have been confined of offences under the Criminal Code of Canada from one jail to another in British Columbia was declared illegal in the Supreme Court of B.C. here yesterday by Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald.

In habeas corpus proceedings taken by J. R. Nicholson on behalf of William Tarchuk, the judge ordered the release of Tarchuk from the Okalla jail, to which he had been removed September 20 from Nelson on a warrant of Attorney-General R. H. Pooley to complete a sentence of twenty-one months.

The sentence was imposed by Judge J. R. Brown for robbery of a Trail restaurant, and the judge ordered the prisoner should be confined in the Nelson provincial jail. Tarchuk was subsequently removed to Okalla on a report of the keeper of that jail that the sentence could not be satisfactorily carried out there.

St. Aidan's School football team will visit Colwood Tuesday afternoon for a game with the Colwood Athletics. The game will commence at 4 p.m. in the R. W. Robinson's field.

To-morrow's Horoscope

This is not a lucky day, according to astrology, which reads in the horoscope for the date adverse aspects that are especially strong in the afternoon.

While the way is favorable to foresight and to wise planning it is menacing to all who seek to put into practice what they have outlined.

The rule is not lucky to those who seek employment but it promises much on later dates.

Uranus is in an aspect supposed to encourage wrong thinking and a critical attitude of mind.

This is a time to demonstrate positive ambitions and to expect the best possible development in business and political affairs.

Contravaries, over educational methods and public policies are indicated at this time when it may be difficult to obtain unity of thought or action.

Members of city councils, state legislatures and other bodies may exhibit differences of opinion that retard business, for this configuration is supposed to have a hampering effect.

Aviation is to bring out widespread discussion and the movement may be slow in taking advantage of its possibilities.

The stars are supposed to encourage the building of ships for the United States navy and to stimulate interest in military matters.

Sensational revelations regarding the actual attainments of college graduates and others supposed to have benefited by education for American are prophesied.

This is a fairly lucky day for shopping and women should prepare for unusual weather in all parts of the country.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the surety of changes in the year which will be marked by experiences not altogether happy. To the wise large profits are indicated.

Children born on this day probably will be greatly individual and original. These children of fortune usually have great success in attaining their ambitions and many are great travelers.

Tokiwa Will Take Heavy Cargo Out on November 14; Shudzuoka En Route Here

The first shipment of Japanese oranges for Canadian distribution for the Christmas season will arrive here on December 2 on the N.Y.K. liner Yokohama Maru, according to an announcement made this morning by A. H. Hebb, local agent for the company. So far the liner's bookings of oranges amount to about 1,500 tons, most of which will likely be sent to eastern Canadian markets over special Canadian National lines. After unloading here the Yokohama will go direct to Vancouver to discharge the oranges. She usually goes on to Seattle from this port.

The Tokiwa Maru, of the same line, which arrived here on Sunday, will take more than 7,000 tons of cargo when she sails on the voyage to Japan and China on November 14. The Tokiwa will not call here on the outward trip, but at Vancouver will load wheat, salt, fish, flour, canned goods, lumber, paper, nine cases of Packard automobiles and other general cargo. The Shidzuoka Maru, which is now en route here from Yokohama, is bringing a total cargo of more than 4,000 tons, including valuable shipment of raw silk for Seattle.
